CONFERENCE WORK

it should be read carefully by every Vermont interested in bettering the laws of the state.

Rev. W. P. Jackson of St. Albans, formerly pastor, but now in charge of the Stranahan Memorial for boys gave a talk on his work with the boys of the city. The club aims to give the boys rational amusements and recreation and also provides evening classes for them. It has only three rules, no swearing, no drinking and no gambling and only in the rooms for men is smoking allowed. The boys enforce the rules themselves and it is wonderful what the club has amounted to in such a short time.

Inter-Church Federation

Rev. Frazier Metzger read the report of the committee on inter-church federation and also a paper on the same subject. The committee recommended that the council of the Inter-church Federation of Vermont four representatives, two ministers and two laymen, and the recommendation was adopted by the conference. In his address Mr. Metzger said that "Love one Another" means church union and that the call to the church today is to drop denominationalism and advance the Kingdom of God, not our particular church. As Mr. Metzger had to hasten to catch a train the discussion which would naturally have followed his paper was cut short. With the benediction pronounced by Rev. Chauncey Adams, the 18th meeting of the Vermont Congregational Conference passed into history.

The Telephone

The Express and Standard is a friend to any system organized for the benefit and welfare of the people. If that system is a monopoly, so-called, in that it is the only system of its kind in the field, and gives entire satisfaction, so much so that criticism is undeserved, then it should be patronized and upheld, whether it is a monopoly or not. If, however, it does not give satisfaction, takes advantage of its secure position to place excessive tolls against its patrons, so much so that these patrons demand an opposition, and with good and sufficient reasons, then the Express and Standard, without fear or favor, will stand up for the opposition. We did this in the case of the People's Telephone Company against the Bell, and would not hesitate to again, if a like case demanded it.

The present agitation for a new telephone system, however, is wholly unlike the conditions that led up to the first. The first original cause of excessive rates with other conditions normal, or such as not to demand the scale. The present is also for raise in rates, but with conditions such that one cannot conscientiously state that the raise is not without some reasonable excuse. In the former case every business man who used a 'phone demanded a new line. In the present case the farmers—not the business men in town—demand it; and the farmers, as yet, have not been through the costly experience of patronizing two lines. In the first case every business man was quick to grasp at the opposition and to patronize it; but in three cases out of five they still cling to the Bell 'phone; and when the Bell system came down to earth, changed into different branches and began to see things in the right light, these same business men began to call for one line, and that line was the Bell, or Passumpsic line, which might be called practically the same. And this same change in sentiment was one of the first causes, and the principal cause, that led the People's Telephone Company to sell out.

While in sympathy with the farmers over this raise in rates—for they affect us the same—we cannot but feel, taking everything into consideration, and they are just and right. The rise in wage, high cost of living, great expenditures required in working up the lines, all demand it. We do know, had the People's Telephone Company continued in operation, the conditions were such that they intended to do just this—same—thing. Knowing this, and the fact that a great outlay was soon required to build the system up, we knew this present raise would come, as it inevitably must, and has in the end.

Dropping all prejudice and looking at the matter in the right light, is the Passumpsic Telephone Company's raise in rates really out of the realms of reason? Are they such as to demand an opposition line, and the almost forcing of business men to again use two 'phones—which they will not do? We think not. And we say it conscientiously and as one who has fought this monopoly for years, and would again, if the case demanded it. We know up to the present time the Passumpsic Telephone Co. are doing all in their power to make their system as perfect as possible. This in the way of new metallic wires, new lines between towns, new machines, and all of which are being worked from the towns out as fast as possible. We, and others, kick the line because it cannot be secured when wanted; but this is the universal complaint with all lines, and always will be as long as some good woman or man can use it 69 minutes at a stretch because they have "paid for it." And this they still can do.

The greatest argument of the present opposition seems to be that the Passumpsic Company may again increase their rates, and shorten the free territory already allowed. We are informed from good authority that this will not be done. Anyway, as the Passumpsic Telephone Company claims to be exhausting large sums of money to improve its system and to place it in first-class condition, it is best before it is condemned or unduly criticized to give it an opportunity to demonstrate its disposition and ability to furnish the people of this section of the state satisfactory service at reasonable rates. If the rates are unreasonable as compared with the outlay and all things in comparison—which it is best to look into carefully before criticizing too much—and they continue to go up with territory shortened, then push the opposition for all it is worth; but not till then.—[Express and Standard.]

The postprandial exercises were followed by the evening services in the North church. Rev. R. G. Woodbridge conducted the devotional exercises and excellent music was furnished by the North Church Brotherhood chorus.

Address Wednesday Evening

Rev. Arthur H. Bradford gave a stirring address on "The Church and Social Unrest." He said in part, the increasing number of people who will not support or become interested in the church today, who are dissatisfied with things as they are, may be the thick smoke just before the fire is kindled as this condition of social unrest is surely the church's opportunity, and a challenge to action. It is the same as the state of mind which precedes conversion in an individual. The present social unrest challenges the church of Christ to accomplish social salvation. Everyone who sees in this condition an opportunity for service should cooperate with all the agencies to lead individual men and women to the new life of social thinking, social living, and social service.

Rev. Charles F. Carter, D. D., of Hartford, Conn., followed with an especially interesting address on "The Expanding Conscience," which was closely akin to the preceding subject. Social unrest, he said, is the motive power of social reconstruction. He compared the two sayings, "Am I my Brother's Keeper?" and "We are Members One of Another," as illustrating individual conscience and lack of conscience, and showing the relation which exists between men living and doing business together. We have a great responsibility in our generation; it is not enough to live up to the moral code when we were born; we must not bank on moral heritage alone, but do the thing that shall extend the spirit of the moral conscience code. Ministers should try to hold the people in a community together, both weak and ignorant, also those who desire to do right and are looking for a better day. The things men do together are what saves the world today. By our public and private life men stand men tall. He gave as a golden rule, "I will have nothing which all may not have their counterpart of on the same terms."

ST. JOHNSBURY CENTER.

Shepherd Pomona Grange Meeting

Largely Attended—Personals

One of the largest attended grange meetings was held here last Wednesday evening, when the Shepherd Pomona Grange met at Green Mountain hall, there being over 175 present. Eight subordinate granges were represented. The hall was decorated with house plants and the officers in the degree team wore carnations. The degree team, which conferred the degrees on 24 candidates did the work in fine shape. The floor drill was very pretty and appreciated by all. After the degree work, a bountiful banquet was served, followed by a very interesting program. Mr. Moore of Passumpsic, master of Shepherd Pomona grange, gave a brief history of the grange and welcomed the state master and other members. He spoke in a very pleasing manner. A vocal solo by Mrs. Maurice Paige of Green Mountain grange and readings by Millie Lenton of Passumpsic and Mrs. Harry Hovey of Wide Awake grange were thoroughly enjoyed, also the instrumental music by Mr. and Mrs. A. Colbath of Wide Awake grange. State Lecturer, E. H. Hallett, member of Wide Awake grange spoke for a few moments very interestingly. The state master, W. C. Cady of Middlebury was present and made brief remarks. Mr. Cady has always been a farmer and gave some good advice from his own standpoint. Owning to the lateness of the hour only part of the program was given, but the meeting was pronounced to be one of the best and most interesting that the grange has had for some time. Those who were in the degree team and to whom credit should be given: Walter Hall, who was drill master; Master, Mr. Moore, Passumpsic; overseer, Walter Hall, St. Johnsbury Center; lecturer, Irving Hall, St. Johnsbury Center; secretary, Mrs. Jones, Lyndon; chaplain, Ella McLaughlin, St. Johnsbury Center; steward, Charles Lenton, Passumpsic; treasurer, Mr. Peck, St. Johnsbury; assistant steward, Archie Colbath, St. Johnsbury Center; last assistant steward, Bertha Salmon, St. Johnsbury Center; gate keeper, Dean Hall, St. Johnsbury Center; Flora, Mrs. A. B. Colbath, St. Johnsbury Center; Pomona, Millie Lenton, Passumpsic; Ceres, Mrs. Moore, Passumpsic. Those in the court were, Mrs. Leo Eastman, Mrs. Irving Hall, Mrs. Fred Hill.

Mrs. George Gorham of Barton and Mrs. Charles Hubbard were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Park last week.

Miss Cady and her father, Mr. Cady, of Middlebury, were entertained at Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hallett's last week.

The Memorial service at the Congregational church was largely attended Sunday. The church was prettily decorated with flags, flowers and plants. Rev. Mr. Goodheart preached an excellent sermon and special music was rendered by the Congregational choir.
